Glasgow man charged with attempted murder

Daily News (Bowling Green, KY) - October 16, 2007

Author: BURTON SPEAKMAN, The Daily News

The Glasgow man accused of attempting to run over a police officer early Saturday has been charged with attempted murder.

William Forrest Geiger, 68, 118 Minton St., Glasgow, attempted to run over Officer Robert Perry at 5:07 a.m. at the Motel 6 at 3139 Scottsville Road, according to the Bowling Green Police Department.

Additional charges are expected to be filed in this case, said Officer Jerry Corbitt, spokesman for the city police.

Geiger, 68, had attempted to get a room key at the motel. When he was not allowed to enter the room, he had an altercation with the hotel clerk, which resulted in a call to police, according to Kentucky State Police Trooper Todd Holder, spokesman for the KSP in Bowling Green.

Another officer at the scene saw Geiger in the parking lot and chased him on foot, according to a city police report. The other officer saw Geiger get into a vehicle and take off in the direction of Perry.

When the vehicle was coming toward Perry, he yelled for Geiger to stop, according to a city police report. But Geiger's vehicle continued to accelerate toward Perry.

Perry jumped out of the way of the vehicle and fired his weapon once at Geiger's car, hitting Geiger in the stomach, according to the report. Geiger sped away from the scene on Three Springs Road resulting in a chase.

During the chase, Geiger's vehicle nearly struck several other vehicles and created a risk to other drivers on the road, according to the report.

The chase ended when stop sticks were used at the intersection of Three Springs Road and Ky. 240 to deflate Geiger's tires, according to the report.

The chase ended a short distance from the intersection in front of Woodburn Church of Christ at 505 Ky. 240.

State police are still investigating the shooting portion of the incident, Holder said.

Perry is on administrative leave with pay until the shooting investigation is resolved as part of department policy.

Geiger was transported by helicopter from Ky. 240 to Vanderbilt University Medical Center in Nashville. He was listed in stable condition, according to state police.

Potentialvoterstuneout politics

Kentucky Enquirer, The (Ft. Mitchell, KY) - May 14, 2007

Author: Patrick Crowley pcrowley@nky.com

Turnout for primary might barely reach into double digits

CRESTVIEW HILLS - Heather Browning doesn't have time to think about Ernie, Anne or Billy. Her mind is on Gabriella and Savannah.

Like many young mothers, Browning is too busy with the rigors of child rearing to care too much about the May 22 primary.

GOP gubernatorial candidates Gov. Ernie Fletcher, Anne Northup and Billy Harper - along with party's nomination - are losing out to hectic days raising kids and the quiet moments at the end of the day, particularly for parents of young children.

"Women my age, especially moms, are busy with kids all day," said Browning, 30, who was strolling through Crestview Hills Town Center on a recent sunny Tuesday morning.

"But I also don't hear a lot of people talking about the governor's race," he said. "They have other things on their mind."

"Most people I know just don't care about state politics."

EDITORIAL; 'Yoicks' won't do it

Courier-Journal, The (Louisville, KY) - Saturday, December 6, 2008

Steve Beshear was elected governor a year ago because he wasn't Ernie Fletcher.

The public expected Mr. Beshear to restore candor and credibility to the executive branch, and he's done that. Perhaps his most important achievement has been placing the Transportation Cabinet, long the basic machinery for corrupting state government, in the hands of the unassailably honest Joe Prather, and telling him to run it the right way. Creating a tough new executive branch ethics code was fine, too, but changing the culture at Transportation was much more important. The Practical Solutions road-building plan is a welcome way to get more, and more reasonable, road work for the taxpayers' dollars. But cleaning up the cabinet itself is historic change.

Pushing successfully, in a bipartisan effort, for a smart start on public employee pension reform won't get the cheers it deserves, but even the most cynical Kentuckians must applaud the Governor's insistence on state-managed health coverage for 36,000 uninsured children.

Whether one chooses the lemonade metaphor or the more colorful chicken salad version, one may say that Mr. Beshear has tried to make the most of a bad budget situation — not just by cutting programs and services carefully to meet the emergencies but by reducing both the total state payroll and the numbers of non-merit political appointees.

All that said, Mr. Beshear often has wavered back and forth across the line that separates caution and timidity. His signature revenue proposal, expanded gambling, didn't even make it through the Democratic House. And he has had to cut more than $430 million out of an already inadequate state budget. But he is only now preparing to put the No. 1 issue — far too little state revenue to do right by Kentucky and its future — before the people. Meanwhile, under his leadership, the state Democratic Party has been no threat to the Republican majority with which Senate President David Williams has kept a stranglehold on state revenues, programs and services.

Kentucky needs more of Beshear the young legislative reformer and courageous attorney general, and less of Beshear the genteel corporate attorney, astride at a Blessing of the Hounds.

Greenwood, WEHS improve on ACT - Warren Central's scores drop one-tenth of a point

Daily News (Bowling Green, KY) - August 19, 2008

Author: NATALIE JORDAN, The Daily News, njordan@bgdailynews.com/783-3243

Two of three Warren County School District high schools saw an increase in their ACT scores in 2008.

Greenwood High School had an average composite score of 22.3 – an increase of 0.4 points in its ACT score from last year. The school's composite score is also above the national average of 21.1 and the state average of 20.9.

Warren Central's composite ACT score was 19.5 – down from 2007's score of 19.6.

Warren East had a composite score of 20.9, an increase from the 19.9 score last year.

The ACT assessment consists of tests in four areas: English, mathematics, reading and science reasoning. Many Kentucky colleges and universities use ACT scores to make admissions decisions. The scores were released Wednesday.

"(The students) did very well," said Greenwood Principal Mark Davis, noting the composite score was 1.4 points over the state average. "They are well prepared across the curriculum. When a student comes out of Greenwood, especially with a composite of 22.3, they are ready to go to the next level, whether it be college, vocational or technical school or the world of work, and succeed."

Davis said he credits the composite score to more ACT preparation, schoolwide professional development that focused on reading strategies throughout the curriculum and classes that were geared toward improving reading skills.

"I would love for them to be a little higher," Warren Central High Principal Lisa Hood said of her school's ACT scores.

Hood said the scores were largely consistent from the year before. She said scores went down in reading from 20.1 to 19.5, stayed the same in math at 19.3 and saw a slight decrease in English going from 18.8 to 18.4. The senior class, however, made a gain in science reasoning, going from 19.7 to 21.

Hood said more time will be spent this school year to help prepare students for the ACT, including offering after-school workshops for students.

"We want our ACT scores to go up because the scores accepted for entrance into college have gone up, and we want to do what we can to prepare our students to get into college," Hood said.

Shoe tosser could face trial

Lexington Herald-Leader (KY) - Wednesday, December 17, 2008Author: ROBERT H. REID ASSOCIATED PRESS

BAGHDAD - The Iraqi journalist who hurled his shoes at President George W. Bush was expected to appear before a judge Wednesday in a first step of a complex legal process that could end in a criminal trial, a government official and the reporter's brother said.

Muntadhar al-Zeidi has been in custody since Sunday, when he gained folk hero status across the Arab world by throwing both shoes at Bush during a news conference. Bush ducked twice during the bizarre assault and was not injured.

Despite widespread sympathy for his act across the region, Iraqi authorities sent the case to the Central Criminal Court of Iraq, which handles security and terrorism cases.

An investigative judge will review the evidence and decide whether al-Zeidi should stand trial - a process that could take months. Iraq officials have recommended charging him with insulting a foreign leader, a charge which carries a maximum sentence of two years imprisonment or a small fine.

Shiite lawmaker Bahaa al-Araji said he expected al-Zeidi, who's in his late 20s, to be released on bail in the next few days while the investigative judge considers the case.

Al-Baghdadia television, his employer, said al-Zeidi would be represented by Dhiaa Saadi, head of the Iraqi lawyers' association.

The head of Jordan's Bar Association, Saleh Armouti, said scores of lawyers have volunteered to help defend al-Zeidi.

Gov. Steve Beshear has handed lawmakers a chance to salvage a session that was going down as a dud. By supporting Beshear's call for a meaningful increase in the cost of smoking, the legislature can move Kentucky a big step forward. House Democrats and Beshear should stop the finger-pointing and infighting and work together to meld the best of both their revenue plans into a budget that averts bloodletting in health care and education. Then let Republicans explain

Democratic disharmony Beshear, House Leaders Can't Find Song They Can Sing Together

FRANKFORT -- As first Gov. Steve Beshear and later House Democratic leaders talked to the media about their revenue and budget differences Friday morning, the image that came to mind was of a couple discussing reconciliation while signing the papers making the divorce final. Oh, both sides said all the right things after their hourlong meeting in the Supreme Court chambers. You know the words. Cooperation. Work together. Same team. Yadda, yadda, yadda. But they didn't appear to

Whiff of 'Godfather' in the Capitol

Lexington Herald-Leader (KY) - Sunday, March 9, 2008

Author: Martin Cothran

Recent actions by casino proponents in the state House of Representatives have prompted suggestions that there may be a more fitting slogan for the pro-casino effort than "Let the people decide." A more appropriate slogan might be, "We're going to make you an offer you can't refuse."

State Rep. Dottie Sims, D-Horse Cave, was one of five state lawmakers on the House Elections and Constitutional Amendments Committee who voted against casino legislation being pushed by Speaker of the House Jody Richards, D-Bowling Green, causing it, along with a competing casino bill, to fail.

Sims then went about the rest of her business, until, later in the day, when she found herself sleeping, politically speaking, with the fishes.

Sims got word in the afternoon that several members of House Democratic leadership had thrown her off the committee and replaced her with two other legislators. Another committee meeting was quickly called, and Richards' casino bill was passed.

The lesson can't have been lost on rank-and-file House members, who have to see the actions taken against Sims as a sign of what may happen to them should they go against the will of the speaker, who led the move against Sims.

In fact, some legislators might be advised to check under their sheets in the morning at their Frankfort hotels.

According to recent news reports, there is an oversupply of retired thoroughbreds, and the horse industry is at a loss as to what to do with them. The casino industry can't fail to have asked why they shouldn't be employed to further the pro-casino cause, and whether, if the horse industry really means business, it doesn't have a few horse heads it can spare.

There are, after all, those in House Democratic leadership with the requisite skills to do what needs to be done. House Caucus Chairman Charlie Hoffman, one of the three members involved in giving Sims the ax, is a professional meat cutter.

One serious problem casino forces have faced is the lack of internal cohesion. There has been increasing dissension among Democratic House leadership on how to approach the issue, resulting in an internal split between the families, er, factions. The dominant faction seems to be the one led by Richards, whose legislation does not guarantee that casinos will be run by the horse tracks.

Repeated attempts by Gov. Steve Beshear to bring the warring parties to agreement have failed. In a recent meeting in the Governor's Office, he tried, unsuccessfully in the end, to impress on them the importance of unity and cooperation. Most observers think the infighting between different pro-casino factions has doomed the legislation.
